

One Love Global

Transforming communities so Black children experience justice, peace, healing, opportunity, and abundance.

Youth celebrating their completion of Freedom Summer Youth Organizing School: Social Enterprise Edition 2025.

Too often, the systems that shape our schools—funding, accountability, and measures of quality—can feel complicated and out of reach. Understanding how education works is essential for all of us who want to ensure that every child has access to a strong, well-resourced public education.

That's why My Brother's and Sister's Keeper Michigan (MBSK) is launching a new podcast series this fall. These conversations are designed to demystify the nuts and bolts of our education system and spark deeper dialogue leading up to this fall's Education People's Assembly and Town Hall. Think of them as supportive resources to help get the conversation started—because school is in session, and the conversation starts now.

See public school performance in seven key areas: student growth, student proficiency, school quality/student success, graduation rate, English Learner progress, assessment participation, and English Learner participation.

This fall, we'll bring the community together to go deeper at the Lansing Education People's Assembly on Wednesday, October 8th, 6–8 PM (virtual), featuring Dr. Pamela Pugh, President of the Michigan State Board of Education. This timely conversation will explore the urgent challenges and opportunities shaping Michigan's schools, including:

- The realities of state and federal school funding
- How curriculum decisions are made
- The public narratives influencing our classrooms
- How communities and schools can work together to reimagine and sustain public education

Come to learn, ask questions, and connect with others committed to ensuring that every child has access to quality, well-resourced public education.
